He had promised never to look at her on Saturdays but jealousy saw him break his promise and thus he looked through a keyhole and saw that his wife had a fishtail on Saturdays. Thereupon Melusina vanished in the depths of the Alzette and was never to be seen again, although she is said to appear at the Bock Promontory every seven years.

The old Altmünster Benedictine abbey was destroyed in 1542 so that the Benedictine monks built a new abbey in the suburb of the Grund. The Neumünster Abbey consisted of a church and four wings enclosing an inner courtyard. At the end of the 18th century, after the French Revolution, authorities expropriated the Church of Saint John and the abbey was altered so as to house a military hospital which functioned until 1867. After the State took over the premises, Neumünster was used as prison for male inmates up to 1980.

After more than 10 years of restoration works the abbey reopened to the public in 2004 to become a popular cultural and conference centre, renamed Centre Culturel de Rencontre "Neimënster". The centre hosts concerts, performances, seminars and exhibitions. The "Events, Catering & Meetings" department offers tailor-made solutions which are conform to the "green charter" it developed. The centre offers concert, theatre and conference halls, as well as seminars and open-air concerts. The complex also hosts the European Institute of Cultural Routes of the Council of Europe, the Pierre Werner Cultural Institute as well as a restaurant.

The locals also call it the New Theatre; it was built on the occasion of the millennium of the city of Luxembourg between 1960 and 1964 according to the plans of the Parisian architect Alain Bourbonnais. It embodies European collaboration as its building materials and fittings come from Luxembourg, Belgium, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and the Netherlands. After important renovation works on the building itself, but above all on the stage and on the technical installations, it has today a "grande salle" (943 seats) and a so-called studio (a sort of adaptable Black Box with a capacity from 100 to 400 seats).

The eclectic programme of the Théâtres de la Ville 2018 season underlines the theatre's commitment to its audiences from all walks of life with a variety of cultural backgrounds. International opera-lovers will enjoy the classics. But other works will equally delight those audiences in search of a musical treat. Furthermore, the Grand Théâtre has yet again attracted some of the world's foremost choreographers and acclaimed dance companies for its new season. The Théâtres de la Ville aim to showcase a large variety of all things dramatic, musical and rhythmic while always applying the same rigorous quality standards that audiences have come to expect.

Did you know ...

... that Luxembourg has a Museumsmile? There are a surprising number of museums and art centres in the small capital city of Luxembourg. They can be linked up as points on a map of the city, and fortunately they cover a total distance of slightly less than a full mile. Visiting these museums is easy because of the short distance, but the variety and uniqueness of the seven cultural institutions strung out in an arch like pattern in the fragmented topography constitute the real attraction that entices visitors to simply "go and see". The paths, cycle paths and bus routes which lead the visitor from one museum to the next offer a relaxed route with numerous art galleries, boutiques, restaurants and cafés and with excellent scenic views. In the brochure "Museumsmile", the "d'stater muséeën" have provided a short description of each museum and art centre and proposed several ways to progress easily along the "museum mile". Experience the cultural side of the city... and (s)mile! A descriptive leaflet is available at the Luxembourg City Tourist Office and on www.museumsmile.lu.

In its new building, inaugurated in 2002, and in three historic houses renovated in 2014, the National Museum of History and Art shows the national archaeological, historical and artistic collections in more than 6,000 m². It is a key cultural attraction for those who wish to understand the history of Luxembourg through its public collections. The Museum's prologue offers an uplifting introduction by displaying a brief history of the country and the Museum since 1839. The visitor is then invited to continue his journey along the route of his choice. There are four circuits to choose from: territorial archaeology from prehistory to the middle ages; national and international painting and sculpture from the 14th century to the present day; life in Luxembourg from the 16th century to the present day; and monetary history from antiquity to the present day. Beyond the newly outfitted permanent collections featuring the jewels of the Museum, the MNHA also regularly offers major temporary exhibitions that resonate with its own collections. Visitors can also admire works by the famous Luxembourg-born American photographer Edward Steichen.

The museum, located on the Kirchberg Plateau, invites the public to an exploration of contemporary art. The public spaces are laid out on three levels over nearly 3,000 m² dedicated to exhibitions. MUDAM proposes temporary exhibitions, a presentation of works from the collection, guided tours, meetings, workshops, etc.

24.02.-02.09.2018 JOÃO PENALVA

The works of João Penalva appeal to a wide variety of media and materials. They present themselves in the form of large installations, as well as more intimate pieces in which image, text and sound, language and memory, are gathered to create poetic fictions.

17.05.2018-06.01.2019 SUSUMU SHINGU

The art of Susumu Shingu could not exist without the wind. His elegant sculptures are enlivened by the slightest breath and reveal the intangible but omnipresent presence of the air. This "atmospheric" material sculpted by the artist underlines his affinity to the world, his ecological consciousness. All of his work is underpinned by this harmonious research of the rhythms and vibrations of nature, so the wind, the water, the light, the rain, the snow become the main actors of its creations.

17.05.2018-06.01.2019 NO MAN'S LAND

Sanctuarisation is one of the responses to ecological concerns about natural territories: those intended as such, but also those resulting from effects induced by military or political situations. So many situations aimed at regulating the impact of human presence on the non-human living space which today strongly alter the cultural imaginary, requiring to reconsider the state of our sensibility towards the natural world.

06.10.2018-18.02.2019 JEFF WALL

Jeff Wall is a major figure of the art world in the last decades. Since the end of the 1970s, he develops a body of work that has profoundly altered the way we envision the photographic medium. By associating it with a broader pictorial tradition and imagining it in its affiliations with other art forms – mainly painting, but also cinema, literature and theatre – he has re-defined its essence and opened the scope of possibilities. This large-scale exhibition gathers some thirty works by the artist, both recent and older.

The Museum "Dräi Eechelen – fortress, history, identities" inaugurated in 2012, is situated in the extraordinary restored keep of the historic Fort Thüngen, built in 1732-33.

Each of the casemates in the permanent exhibition illustrates a different era of the fortress and its influence on the country's history. The tour begins in the Middle Ages with the capture of the city of Luxembourg by the Burgundians in 1443, and ends with the construction of the Pont Adolphe in 1903. More than 600 objects and original documents, many of which have never been shown before, highlight the diversity of the collections. A special room houses a selection of historical photographs which present the fortress immediately before and after it was razed. The historic building of the museum constitutes in itself an important element of the permanent exhibition. With its impressive underground galleries and mines, it corresponds to a large extent to the original condition during the last phase of its expansion in 1836/1837.

The visitor is invited to explore important themes of the permanent exhibition through an interactive database and audio-visual documentation in the multimedia room. Free audio guides supply detailed explanations for many objects in French, English, German and Luxembourgish. An auditorium regularly provides the facilities for conferences or screenings in relation to the exhibitions. The first floor is dedicated to temporary exhibitions.

31.05.-21.10.2018

FRIENDS/FOES. MANSFELD AND THE OTHER SIDE OF THE COIN

The exhibition, assembled with the help of privileged loans from the Royal Library of Belgium, is directly related to the 500th anniversary of the renaissance prince Pierre-Ernest de Mansfeld (1517-1604). The governor of the Duchy of Luxembourg lived in Luxembourg in his magnificent residence in Clausen as well as at the Spanish court in Brussels where he rubbed shoulders (mixed) with dignitaries, noblemen, humanists. Thus a genuine social fabric was created which is reflected by the precious miniature portraits created by the famous medal engraver Jacques Jonghelinck (1530-1606).

Ideally located in the heart of the capital, the Casino Luxembourg – Forum d'art contemporain holds contemporary art exhibitions with an international programme of mainly younger-generation artists. The art centre houses public spaces with a variety of uses and vocations, combining contemporary art with a warm and friendly meeting place: the ground floor, next to a library specialising in contemporary art, has a "BlackBox" projection room devoted to artists' videos; an area dedicated to learning activities, and a café-restaurant, the ca(fê)sino. The first floor is exclusively used for temporary exhibitions, so artists' monographs and themed exhibitions are shown here. These are completed by a varied programme of guided tours, conferences and encounters with contemporary music, as well as artists in residence. Far from any museological concerns, the Casino functions like an artistic and experimental think tank heading for the latest trends in the art scene.

27.01.-15.04.2018 FABIEN GIRAUD & RAPHAËL SIBONI

Through video and film works, the exhibition by Fabien Giraud and Raphaël Siboni is based around a history of technology; not that of instruments and tools which serve human production, but rather a history of man himself, as a production technique.

05.05.-09.09.2018 CHRISTOPH MEIER

With his site-specific work Christoph Meier questions the nature of the artwork but also largely its relation to the architectural space and the public. Rather than occupying an exhibition space with his artworks Meier creates a new space for various encounters.

29.09.-09.12.2018 FILIP MARKIEWICZ

The exhibition by Filip Markiewicz (b. in 1980 Luxembourg, of Polish origin) is spanning drawing, film, sculpture, and installation. The seismic shifts in global politics, particularly across Europe and the USA inspire Markiewicz's work in hand with the resilience of the entertainment industry.

During the Nazi occupation of Luxembourg (May 1940-September 1944), the train station in Hollerich served as one of the main gathering sites and departure points for young Luxembourgers forced to join the German labour service (the "RAD") and the German military service. Furthermore, thousands of politically-undesirable Luxembourgers were deported from Hollerich. A number of the Jews who were living in Luxembourg were loaded onto the trains only a few hundred metres from this point and were displaced to ghettos or death camps.

Today, the train station in Hollerich is dedicated to the Luxembourgers who were forced to enter the German army, as well as to those who were deported and to the Jewish victims of the Nazi regime. To honour the memory of the victims of the Nazi regime, the Hollerich train station accommodates an educational and interactive museum accessible to the public.

LUXEMBOURG 'THE COUNTRY'

THE MULLERTHAL REGION – LUXEMBOURG'S LITTLE SWITZERLAND

With its spectacular rock formations, the Mullerthal Region offers both a romantic landscape and an impressive history. Active nature fans will enjoy the Mullerthal Trail, selected as a 'Leading Quality Trail – Best of Europe' by the European Ramblers' Association in 2014. Tours of the abbey town of Echternach, the oldest town in the country, as well as the castles of Beaufort, Bourglinster and Larochette, are also a must.

THE LUXEMBOURGISH ARDENNES

Explore this region with enchanting landscapes. At the heart of these deep green valleys, we take you on a tour of majestic castles and mythical ruins. A genuine temple of nature, the Luxembourgish Ardennes region has two nature reserves (Haute-Sûre and Our). Then we'll stop in Clervaux to discover the greatest photography exhibition of all time, 'The Family of Man'. The exhibition is housed in Clervaux Castle, and has been listed on UNESCO's Memory of The World register since 2003.

THE MOSELLE

Only a few kilometres away from the capital, the Moselle invites you to discover a region with a more relaxed pace of life. A riverside landscape dominated by wine-growing, picturesque villages, a green hinterland that's perfect for hiking and cycling, without forgetting a cuisine that combines modern culinary arts with regional products. From a scenic river cruise on the Moselle to a cultural trip to Schengen, the European village par excellence, chosen as the setting to sign the Schengen Agreement on 14 June 1985, enjoy delicious Luxembourgish wines and cremants in one of the many famous cellars.

TERRES ROUGES (RED LANDS)

The south of Luxembourg has undoubtedly been influenced by its industrial heritage. Today, the former mining area of the Terres Rouges combines ancient history with new technologies, and offers a multitude of contrasts: Belval, the new neighbourhood with its Cité des Sciences (Science City) and renovated blast furnace, with the accessible blastfurnace shaft platform at a height of 40 metres. Rumelange and a tour of the underground galleries in a mining train at the Musée National des Mines de Fer luxembourgeoises (National Mining Museum). Dudelange and the photo exhibition 'The Bitter Years 1935-1941' by Edward Steichen located in a striking gallery in an old water tower on an industrial wasteland. Bettembourg and its 'Parc Merveilleux', the only fairy-tale theme park in Luxembourg.

GUTTLAND – CENTRAL/WESTERN LUXEMBOURG

Just outside the city of Luxembourg, the visitors will find an enchanting setting of charming villages with old farm houses, imposing castles and beautiful natural landscapes. The region offers a calm and peaceful environment, despite it being located at the geographic centre of the country. Hundreds of kilometers of hiking and cycling trails meander through the untouched landscapes. No other part of Luxembourg boasts as many medieval relics as this region (definite highlights being the castle of Useldange or the park of the new castle of Ansembourg). The historic heritage is simply ubiquitous, whether in the Valley of the Seven Castles, on the many Gallo-Roman sites or in the rural museums. The youngest visitors will have plenty of fun exploring the world of milk in the Vitarium in Roost/Bissen, looking for the ghost of the mill in Beckerich or feeding the animals (alpakas, donkey, ponies...) of one the many educational farms in the Guttland region.

FESTIVAL OF MIGRATIONS, CULTURES AND CITIZENSHIP

What is the magic formula in order to avoid misunderstandings, resist nationalism and those thoughts that reduce identities, projects and actions to a dangerous cultural or linguistic uniqueness? The Festival des migrations, des cultures et de la citoyenneté is the history and memory of solidarity, of linguistic patience and of the mixed origins of our society. This festival is the secret formula of the domino effect, where one person can begin the process of ousting negative thoughts and dark kingdoms.

EASTER MONDAY 02.04.
EMAISCHEN

Popular market.

Don't miss Easter Monday in Luxembourg, as this is when we celebrate the Easter meeting of the Emmaüs disciples with an unmissable market known as the Emaischen. In the old town, listed as a UNESCO world heritage site, we utter joyful twitters when the Péckvillercher – the terracotta whistles shaped like birds – are on sale at the market stalls. Everyone likes to get there early because men and women alike want to buy the prettiest Péckvillercher. And you definitely won't go hungry at the market!

APRIL-SEPTEMBER
'PLËSS IN CONCERT' SERIES

What would Luxembourg City be without the bandstand on the Place d'Armes? Since 1875, the various musical bandstands of the 'most beautiful living room in the city' have seen performances from many different groups! Already in 1920, Batty Weber wrote: 'It's touching, how attached we are to the bandstand, so much so that we consider it one of the most important monuments in the city. There's a reason why public life focusses on one point, so that throughout the week, at a certain time, people go out for a walk and come and go to the sound of the music.' From Easter to September 2018, the Luxembourg City Tourist Office is organising nearly 300 free concerts on the Place d'Armes. You can eat lunch to the sound of classical music on Wednesdays and to jazz on Fridays. The Plëss is transformed into a concert hall every evening at 8 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays at 11.30 a.m., 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

This pilgrimage dates back to the 17th century and is to this day part of the religious and cultural heritage of the Grand Duchy. Thanks to its liturgical and linguistic diversity and its cultural and ecumenical dimensions, the Octave is aimed at a varied and international audience.

It's great to wander through the pedestrian area during these two days. Here you'll find street performers, pantomimes, tight-rope walkers, musicians and many other artists who will take you on a journey through a shimmering world of fantasy and poetry.

For a long time now, this festival with a well-established reputation among artists and spectators alike has been open to new ideas each year. Small walking acts, large shows on the square, interactive games, traditional productions, mobile theatres, puppets, crazy comedies, funny sketches, grotesque programmes on stage, acrobatics and circus choreographies with poetic beauty: some shows are joyful, others make us think, but in almost all cases it's experimental. A full spectrum of street performance artists meet in Luxembourg's city centre. Join in for an enchanting experience!
